Relocating 350 pupils from nearby school

Having initially been commissioned by this inner-city secondary school to carry out a feasibility study, Lathams went on to develop a comprehensive masterplan to support the relocation of 350 pupils from the nearby Meadway School.

The masterplan, which supported an outline planning application, promoted a phased approach to redevelopment, providing a framework for change and evolution as the school increased in size to 1,750 pupils.

Budget costs, developed from the earliest stages of the feasibility study, addressed capacity, suitability and sufficiency issues alongside the need to provide disabled access.
